VOTES REPLY TO SPEAKERS IN CAMPAIGN

Candidates Retire to Bomb-proofs and Await Brickbats or Bouquets

WEATHER IS UNCERTAIN

Northern California Under Wet Sky While Southern Part Is in Sunshine

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.— Voters had their turn today.
Candidates last night said their last say, party headquarters issued their last statements and prophets made their final predictions after which they retired to their bomb proof and waited to see whether bricksbats or bouquets would be hurled in their direction.

Weather conditions in the central and northern part of the state were as uncertain as the outcome of some phases of the election. In San Francisco it rained hard during the night, but the early morning saw the sun trying to come out, with every indication of success and of a fine day for voting.

Democratic leaders were reiterating that William J. Pearson, running for the senate against Hiram W. Johnson, could be looked to to furnish an election surprise and claiming a victory for Woolwine by 75,000 majority.

Richardson declared he was convinced that he would win by at least 150,000 majority.

Richardson closed in the Mission district of San Francisco last night.
Woolwine closed in Los Angeles.

Senator Johnson's headquarters here announced receipt of several telegrams from colleagues of the senator wishing him success.

Vice President Coolidge and Senator Capper were among others sending telegrams, Johnson's headquarters announced.

Only two districts of the state were there really spirited contests for congress. These were in the Los Angeles county district, where Congressman Walter F.
Lineberger, republican, was being opposed by former Congressman Charles H. Randall, democrat and prohibitionist, and in Alameda county, where James W. MacLaff-erty, republican and Hugh W.
Brunk, democrat were fighting it out.

Several congressmen were unopposed and others had only socialist opposition, which was not showing any particular strength, excepting possibly in the case of Hugo Ernst, opposing Julius Kahn in San Francisco, where Ernst had developed considerable labor and other support.

In only two state senatorial districts were there serious contests.
These were in San Francisco, where F. J. Gray, republican was opposed by W. Colburn, democrat, and in Oakland, where Edgar Hurley, republican was running against Frank Cornish, democrat.

For the senate there were a total of 21 contests, many of them brought about by the entry of socialist candidates.

IN LOS ANGELES
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—Election day dawned in Southern California with clear weather and, as usual, bright prospects for all political parties.

Judge Robert B. Clarke, vice president of the republican state committee declared the ticket would carry the southern counties by a majority of at least 115,000. Los Angeles county, he estimated, would give the republicans 75,000 majority.

At the same time, backers of Thomas Lee Woolwine, democratic candidate for governor, declared he held 66 per cent of the voters in Southern California. A statement signed by Charles H. Chapman, Woolwine's county manager, claimed the candidate would carry the state by 50,000. Democratic state headquarters claimed a majority of 75,000 for the ticket.

Ralph Arnold, county republican chairman, forecast the elections of Hiram W. Johnson and Friend W. Richardson and all republican candidates by 75,000 majority.

Each individual candidate issued his own statement, claiming the lion's share of the ballots.

Most estimates on the voting set the figures about 60 per cent of the registration, which would mean in the neighborhood of 270, 000 for the county.

ELECTION RETURNS FLASHED AT THE T. D. & L.

The election returns will be flushed on the T. D. & L. theater screen tonight.

Headlines to "Lorna Doone," a play which will appear in personalities of her character snapshots. Miss Gill, an Orpheum favorite, is really a whole show in herself and an attraction de luxe.

NEW INDUSTRY TO BEGIN OPERATION IN GLENDALE

Plant of Recently Formed Glendale Engineering Co.
Is Being Assembled

J. J. Ferlin, president of the Glendale Engineering company, and C. F. Allebrand, vice president and treasurer of the same concern, left Sunday for Modesto and San Francisco, their aim being to move their engineering plants from those cities to Glendale.

All of the machinery in these two plants and a large quantity of additional equipment is to be installed in the Glendale plant of this concern, which is located at 623 to 643 West Colorado street.

The operation of moving the equipment of these two plants to Glendale will take about two weeks, and it is expected that within thirty days after the arrival of the machinery the local plant will be in operation. At the opening of the plant about 90 men will be employed and it is estimated by Mr.
Ferlin that the annual payroll of the company will be about $200,000.
The building has 14,000 square feet of floor space, the company owning two acres of ground, it is said. The value of the equipment to be placed in this building is estimated at $250,000, by Mr. Fer-lin.

A meeting of the Glendale Engineering company was held at the plant last week. The stockholders and interested business men were present. At this meeting the plans of the company were discussed and the matter of the various articles to be manufactured by the concern was gone over.

"The concern will manufacture," said Mr. Ferlin, "standard automobile parts, power implements and will do general machine work, a special feature being the manufacture of straight bevel and spiral bevel master gears and pinions, transmissions, timing gears and flywheel ring gears. It will also manufacture pistons, piston rings, wrist pins, axles and spline shafts, and will specialize in the manufacture of several fully patented and developed power implements and mechanical tools, the patents for all of which are owned by the company."

J. J. Ferlin, president of the company, has been engaged in the automotive and mechanical engineering business for the past seventeen years. He was formerly general manager of the Modesto Machine Works, which later became incorporated as the Power Implement and Machine Works.

C. F. Allebrand, vice president and treasurer, was formerly connected with the Carnegie Steel company of Pittsburgh, for a period of ten years. He has an extensive knowledge of rolling mill and gas furnace practice.

L. J. Schnerr, general superintendent of the factory, was formerly president and general manager of the Schnerr Gear and Machine Works of San Francisco, and he was personally responsible for the success and growth of that institution.

H. P. Saugman, chief engineer, was formerly efficiency engineer of the J. I. Case company of Racine, Wis., and later with the Leach Beltwell company of Los Angeles.

F. B. Brown, superintendent of shops, recently with the Lincoln Motor company of Detroit, Mich.

S. R. Anderson, general sales manager, was for many years connected with the United States Rubber company and has a wide and detailed selling experience.

EDITH MAY JOINS HAYWARD AND M'CARTNEY

A great deal of interest in real estate circles will be the announcement by Hayward and McCartney that Edith May Osborne of "I sell the earth" fame, has associated herself with the pair.

They are indeed fortunate to have secured the services of one of such wide reputation and experience as a real estate dealer. Mrs. Osborne has been a resident of Glendale for 14 years and therefore has a knowledge of Glendale that few can claim. She has seen and been active in its wonderful development, and believes that this beautiful suburb is destined to become before we realize it.

Edith May Osborne will welcome her many friends at her new headquarters, and is looking forward to making a host of new friends in carrying on the good work of building up Glendale.

GIRL HIKERS

Members of the Girls' Athletic Club of Glendale High are planning a week-end hike to Switzerer's Canyon for November 25 and 26. Girls who have registered for it are Anna May Hunt, Mary Phillips, Isabel B. Sales, Edith May Kranz, Winifred Spindler, Edith Busch, Billie Brawley, Dale Smith, Doris Moyse and Dorothy Pickett.

been filed as candidate for the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce, that of Julius Kranz. The time in which to file petitions ends

MIDGETS TO CLASH WITH MONROVIA

Fourth Round of Race for the Central League Pennant on Moyses Field

STRONG LINE UP

Glendale Leads in League with Undeclared Record of 1000 Per Cent

The Glendale high school midgets will meet the fast Monrovia lightweight aggregation this afternoon on Moyses field in the fourth round of the race for the Central league pennant.

Coch Butcherfield's squad has not lost a game this season and have a standing of one thousand per cent. The Monrovia team has lost one game. They rate seven hundred and fifty. If the local boys defend their record successfully this afternoon the pennant will be practically assured them.

Butcherfield is not going to sacrifice today's game in order to keep his first string men in shape for the Armistice day game with Citrus. The official lineup includes all the first string players.

"The lineup for Saturday's game is practically the same as today's," said the midget coach, "I do not think that two games in one week will handicap us as my men are in excellent shape."

The Glendale lineup: Kelsey, r. f.; Leyhe, r. f.; Putnam, r. f.; Jeter, c.; Morrison, l. g.; Burns, l. t.; McIver, l. e.; La Franchie, g.; W. Roberts, l. h.; Shuler, r. h.; White, f.

Outfielders: Searle, Monroe, Johnson, McAllister, Lovell, Badour.

HIGH LEAGUES TO UNITE IN XMAS WORK

Boys and Girls to Cooperate for Higher Efficiency

Members of the Girls' league and the Boys' league of Glendale high will this year unite in Christmas work, believing it can be more efficiently done by such a combination.

The girls' "stunt" party yielded a return of $100 which will form part of the Christmas fund and a pay assembly will be held November 22, at which a play will be presented by the Dramatic department. The proceeds of this assembly will also go to the Christmas fund.

The main object of the Christmas cheer to be extended by these girls and boys is the Boyd street school in one of the poor districts of Los Angeles. The plan calls for a Christmas tree and party for some of the poorest of the children who will be brought to Glendale in automobiles for the celebration. This is but an enlargement of the work that was done last year.

The two leagues will also cooperate in the Christmas work of the Glendale Welfare Bureau.

ORGANIZED LABOR TO PARADE ON NOV. 11

Carpenters' Union Decides It Will Seek Place in the Demonstration

Organized labor in Glendale should take part in the big Armistice parade, on November 11, it was decided at a meeting of the Carpenters' union, held last night.

The meeting place for the forming of ranks was given as the corner of Maryland and East Broadway.

The action taken last night by the carpenters was to define the action of that organization alone, as representative of organized labor here.

WAR MOTHERS TO MARK ARMISTICE

The most important meeting of the year for the Lester Meyer chapter of War Mothers will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the American Legion hall. At this time plans will be discussed for Armistice day and every war mother, whether a member of the chapter or not is urged to be present.

GLENDALIANS CROWD POLLS AT OPENING

More Interest Is Shown Than in Any Previous General Election

LINE FORMS EARLY

Randall's Strength Appears Early Under Drive of Local Organization

More interest is being shown by Glendaliens in the election than is on today than in any previous general elections in which this city has taken part. At many of the precincts the voters were lined up for action when the polls opened, and from the moment the first vote was cast there was something doing every minute. A steady line of voters has been passing through the voting places throughout the entire morning, and it has been stated by those in a position to know that the vote cast this morning was the largest ever known in Glendale.

Unusual interest is being shown in the large list of amendments on which the people are being asked to vote. During the past few weeks speakers for and against the many proposed laws have talked in Glendale and it is believed that, generally speaking, the voters are fairly well informed on the intent and purpose of the proposed amendments on which they are being asked to decide.

So far as the candidates for office are concerned, the offices of governor, United States senator and congress are receiving the greatest amount of attention. The fight between Richardson and Woolwine will be a heated one until the final count of the votes. Richardson, it is believed, will carry the southern part of the state, while the vote for Woolwine in the northern portion will probably be heavy.

The fight between Randall and Lineberger for congress is also proving warm. Both candidates are convicted of victory, which adds a little "sting" to the battle.

Generally speaking the people of Glendale are doing their patriotic duty of voting. That they are casting their ballots early shows that the voters are taking to heart the many issues that are being decided today.

BENNER'S CLASS TRIMS TRI MU TEAM

By a score of 12 to 5 the boys of Harold Benner's Sunday school class of the First Baptist Sunday school of Glendale, trimmed the indoor baseball team of the Tri Mu class of the same school, the game taking place at the Glendale-Verdugo park on Verdugo road. The youngsters threatened to turn this trick before the game took place.

About fifty members of the Tri Mu and the Benner classes enjoyed the outing. After the baseball and football games the boys sat down to a well fed in which tamales, rolls, coffee, and melon figured, this being served by Chef Gray.

BURGLAR FOILED BY PATROLMAN

An attempt was made last night to burglarize the pharmacy at the corner of Park avenue and Brand boulevard. Officers Boucher approached the corner just as the would-be thief was tampering with the front door of the store. Boucher yelled at the fellow who started down the street on a run. The officer followed, but the man made his escape in the darkness.

OBJECTS TO DIRT DRIPPING CARTS

Mrs. Frank Proctor, 1135 East Wilson reported to the Glendale police last night that teamsters are driving along that street and a lot of dirt is leaking from their wagons onto the street. The police are now investigating the matter.

DRAPER HOME IS LOOTED BY THIEF

Mrs. Alice Draper, 538 West Palm drive, reported to the Glendale police that her house had been robbed, the theft taking place Sunday night. A number of articles were taken, and of these nothing has been heard since.

NEBRASKA VOTE

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 7.—R. B.
Howell, republican, led Senator Hitchock, democrat, in the ballots cast for United States senator at College View this forenoon. The official count in Grant precinct at 1 p. m. was Howell 23, Hitchock 22.

For governor, Charles H. Randall, republican, 36; Charles W.
Bryan, democrat, 16. For congressman, Morehead, democrat, 28; Anderson, republican, 21.

MYSTERIOUS NEEDLE MAN IN GLENDALE

Attacks Child While He Is Passing on the Street in Daylight

VICTIM LATER FAINTS

Apparently Poison Is Not Sufficient to Cause Permanent Injury

The news has just leaked out of a poison needle attack made by an unknown man, Friday morning on little Helen Jewell, whose home is on Wabasso way, Verdugo Woodlands. The needle with which the poison was forced into the child's flesh, entered her shoulder, the injection of the poison resulting in the girl becoming unconscious.

Helen was on her way to school when the attack was made. She had alighted from the Glendale-Montrose car at Isabel street and had proceeded as far north as Wilson. When in front of the Sierra Club Bottling works she stopped to see if the men were making the window of that concern on Hallowe'en had been entered. As she was looking at the window the wielder of the needle passed her.
She felt a trifling sharp pain in her left arm and as she looked around the man was moving away.

Thinking no more of the incident the girl passed on her way to the Seventh Day Adventist school, which is located on Isabel street.
It was about noon the child began to feel queer, and gradually grew worse. She was standing in front of the school building when the fainting spell came. It was some time before she regained consciousness.

"I didn't think a great deal of the incident at the time," said Helen when interviewed this morning. "I noticed the man approaching, but did not know he was after me. When the sharp pain came I looked around and saw the fellow was walking away from me. I thought possibly I had been mistaken or possibly my hair had caught on my dress."

"When I went home that night I told mamma about the incident, and it occurred to us then that I had been stuck with a needle. I have never had a spell of this kind before, and that makes me feel that the man did inject some poison into me."

No ill effects have been felt by the child in any way as a result of the incident. She has since played in her usual manner with her playmates at home and at school.

The supposition that the poison needle artist is about to be revealed by two other reports of incidents of this kind recently. One of these occurred in one of the elevators at the Hamburger store in Los Angeles, at which time the victim fainted and was gradually grew worse, after the insertion of the needle, and the other was on the Pacific Electric car. In the latter instance the victim, after feeling the needle prick, fainted before she could reach the conductor. The characteristics of the three cases are identical, although the poison worked more slowly in the case of little Helen.

The little victim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Jewell of Wabasso way, Verdugo Woodlands.

ARMISTICE CLOSING IS APPROVED

Credit Men Favor Observation of Memorial Day

TO AID LASSIES

Salvation Army Drive Is Endorsed by the Association

The Glendale Credit association went on record Monday as being back of the coming Salvation Army drive, dated for December 6, 7 and 8. A decision was made at their regular meeting Monday at the chamber of commerce, where a delicious chicken dinner was served.
Every man in the association that can get out and do anything toward this drive, has pledged himself to do so. A letter from Rev. C. A.
Cole, president of the Salvation Army drive, was read urging the co-operation of every business association in Glendale.

Another important discussion was held in regard to closing on Armistice day, November 11. The following resolution was adopted:
"Be it hereby resolved that the association go on record as favoring closing on Armistice day, but that actual closing be left to the individual line of business and that any ex-service man so desiring be granted the privilege by his employer of observing this day as a holiday."

There were 50 members present, and one guest, Mr. Krause from Iowa, a guest of Mr. Moore of the Irish linen store.

PAUL BELL DIES AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Young Motorcyclist Was Injured in Auto Collision Sunday

Paul Bell, the youthful motorcyclist who was injured in an automobile accident on Colorado street near Verdugo at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, died at the Glendale sanitarium at 9:30 Sunday night as a result of the injuries received.

When the boy was taken to the sanitarium immediately after the accident it was found that his leg was broken and it was believed he had sustained internal injuries. An examination showed that the injuries were more serious than were expected. Gradually he grew worse, in spite of the expert medical attention administered.

The body was removed to an under-taking parlor in Los Angeles, where a coroner's inquest will be held in an effort to fix the blame for the accident.

PENN STATE TO PLAY IN PASADENA

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—
"Nothing to it" seems to be the consensus of opinion regarding the rumored possibility that Penn State will be asked not to send its football team to Pasadena New Year's day. Penn State is still the choice of the Pacific coast conference which has the last word in the choice of the eastern team for the big holiday game. Word from Seattle indicated that the conference will stick by its Penn State decision even if that team loses all the rest of the games on its schedule.

CAMPBELL HAS OWN TROUBLES

Daniel Campbell, the banker finds himself in a great quandary as he is leaving the last of the week for the north and will attend the great football game to be played on the Stanford campus by the teams of Stanford and University of Southern California. His son Daniel is a student at Stanford and his son Arthur is taking a dental course at the University of Southern California. Under the circumstances he doesn't know which team to root for.

SCHOOLS TO MARK ARMISTICE DAY

It is expected that every elementary school in the city will have a special Armistice day program Friday afternoon at which there will be speeches made by orators secured through the local post of the American Legion.

CHURCH NOTICES TO BE GIVEN ON FRIDAY

All notices relating to church services Sunday will be printed in the Friday edition of the Glendale Daily Press, owing to the observation of Armistice Day, Saturday, November 11.

CORRECT POLLING PLACE FOR NO. 13 PRECINCT VOTERS

Precinct No. 13 will vote at 1457 East California, not at "Verdugo road near California," as stated yesterday in the list of polling places.

CHAMBER URGES PURCHASE OF GLOBE

The chamber of commerce is exerting itself to reimburse in re-measure the loss sustained by William J. Schaeffle in the publication of a special edition of the American Globe, featuring Glendale as the fastest growing city in America. It has agreed to take and sell 2000 copies at 15 cents each and is urging citizens to buy them at that figure either from the chamber or the news stands on which they will be placed and send them to friends in the east, because of the exposition the number gives of Glendale, its past

Truths in Epigram

Borrowing is the canker and death of every man's estate. — Raleigh.

By the street of By-and-by, one arrives at the house of Never. — German proverb.

There is no sterner moralist than pleasure. — Byron.

Speech is but broken light upon the depth of the unspoken. — Eliot.

BURNING THE FORESTS

Last week a man was fined $50 in a Pasadena court for having left his campfire unextinguished. A little water, a little dust, just the trouble of smothering the embers, and he would have been saved the annoyance of arrest and fine. In the common judgment, the fine will be regarded as too small. The salvation of the growths that deck the hills is in scaring the mentally incompetent, or the deliberately heedless into staying away from them.

This year some of the most picturesque canyons of southern California have been swept by fire. Probably in almost every instance the fire was due to gross and criminal carelessness, or to a stupidity for which there could be no excuse. The man who does not know the habits of flame when it is loosed in dry timbered areas, is not fit to be trusted with a match. There is some belief that certain fires were deliberately set, although this may be a baseless suspicion. The desire to maintain respect for one's fellowmen leads to the hope that such reports are erroneous. The loss actually inflicted, considered commercially, runs to a high figure. The marring of the landscape and the impairment of watersheds, also represent losses hard to compute.

But for the coming of a rain, and in the high places, a fall of snow, doubtless some of the late fires still would have been raging. The destruction that such fires cause might be avoided save in the rare case when the outbreak is an act of nature. The burden of blame rests on individuals, and is not to be shifted by the plea of accident or of spontaneous combustion.

THIS ALOOF COUNTRY

There was war in Europe, and the strongest nations were sinking under the impact of its fury. The United States raised an army of four million men, and went to the rescue. That the tide was turned just then may have been coincidence, of course. Nevertheless the people of this country feel that they showed more than mere good intent. It was conceded quite generally that the American soldiers fought well, and there was sympathetic appreciation of the circumstance that when peace had come, many of them slept in foreign soil.

About that time the United States spent billions in construction of wooden ships to meet the sudden emergency. This was done with the knowledge that when the war should be over, these ships would be almost useless. They have since been sold for less than the ruling price of miscellaneous junk. All the while, the peoples across the seas were calling for financial aid, too. They did not call in vain. To this purpose also Americans devoted their billions; hard-earned money going into the purchase of bonds; many a family skimping that it might do a loyal share in saving the world.

After the war there was set up in Europe a period of privation. Whole nations were in need of food. By shiploads and fleets the food was forwarded. Thousands of Europeans still are dependent upon this country for sustenance, and for clothing to cover their shivering bodies. It is being sent, not at a price, but goes as a contribution, and the constant cry for more, ever is heeded.

Such are a few facts, stored in the memory of every American; known to every European of intelligence. Is it any wonder that America grows weary at times of expressions of ingratitude that convey an actual dislike?

Recently a French editor asked in seriousness if the discovery of the western continent really had been worth while to the human race. He may be set down as a fool, but his imbecility is no lonesome instance "over there."

VALUABLES WITHOUT VALUE

A San Diego court has ruled that liquor has no recognizable value in the eyes of the law. Nevertheless it has a decided value in the eyes of the regrettable large number who buy, sell, steal or manufacture it from dire ingredients.

The result of the court's ruling is to give license to the theft of liquor. It is all very confusing. No court could desire to do this. If breaking into a house and departing with the whisky found there is not a crime, still it is an act that could not well be commended on moral grounds. A thief is a thief at heart whether his booty is procured from a safe or from a cache of moonshine. On general principles it is proper to regard him as a bad man and an undesirable citizen. He has no good intent in taking liquor. He will sell the stuff, caring nothing as to whether it is poison. He will charge some poor sucker for it at a rate in itself robbery. It seems that he then ought to be liable not alone for defying prohibition, but for accepting money, and giving nothing in return.

Such a ruling as that cited may be correct. It may even be wise. It lacks, however, the aspect of being sound public policy. The failure to protect the owner of the liquor does not in any measure tend to protect society. On the contrary it exposes society to an accentuated danger by permitting the bootlegger to get his wares where he may find them, and encouraging him in an operation, that while not burglary, because a judge says it is not, has all the seeming, the purpose and the effect of precisely the crime mentioned.

SEERS THAT CAN'T SEE

The news column record the arrest of another "seer." It had been his wont to describe himself, at space rates, as the "Master Mind of the Twentieth Century." He announced that for him to know the unknowable was easy, and to solve problems whatever their intricacy, simply a part of the day's work. As for looking into the future, there simply was no limit to his capacity. All of this ordinary intelligence must have recognized as buncombe, a term for convenience condensed into "bunk." But it is not the ordinary intelligence that a seer relies upon to answer his lure. He is in quest of the abundant simpleton. So far as definitely determined, the Twentieth Century lacks a "master mind," the dominance of which is recognized and accepted. If there is such a mind to be set apart from the rest, it never would be sought in the incense-haunted lair of a "seer." For the seer who thus proclaims himself is a fraud. He could not be otherwise. There is the possibility that in instances he has deluded himself, in which case his salvation lies in a plea of insanity.

It is singular that municipal authorities license the activities of these preying pretenders. But being permitted to perform, it is not strange that dupes in plenty should present themselves. Human nature is credulous. Ever it hopes to glimpse that which is eternally shut from mortal vision, or to receive coherent messages from realms from which no message has come to man.

THE QUALITY OF PERSISTENCE

Damon Runyon writes of the hapless persons who hang about race tracks, or other places where there is opportunity to wager on the outcome of a contest. Betting, betting, never winning, year after year they appear, eager to toss their money away. Of them he says, "You have to admire their persistence, even while questioning their judgment."

There is nothing in mere persistence to admire. It may shadow forth vicious intent. It may be the expression of a blind and blundering folly. When a man is engaged in a hopeless task, and declines to realize the hopelessness of it, continuing to batter his pate against the wall that fate has erected against his path, he may merit pity, for that he lacks brains; he may deserve advice, because of some other quality he possesses. No admiration is due. Persistence is without color of morals. It may be good and it may be evil. Certainly it is not good when it causes the waste of time, energy and capital.

The ordinance adopted by the Los Angeles city council to regulate the movements of pedestrians at crossings seems to have been the outgrowth of necessity. Heedless persons have been too persistent in efforts to get themselves killed. Now the throng on the pavement will be obliged to obey the same signal that governs the automobile drivers. There will be protests, of course, but doubtless also a saving of life and limb.

A current newspaper illustration shows a man poised on the wing of a soaring plane, holding a chair in his teeth. Such exhibitions should be stopped. The cost of furniture is considerable, and a chair is worth real money.

Destruction of a celluloid factory in the east resulted in the deaths of some of the operatives, as might have been expected. Celluloid is highly inflammable, and thus the danger of handling it is recognized. In a factory where it is compounded it should be a matter of course that every possible precaution be taken against fire, and ample paths to escape provided.

Rhode Island has a senatorial contest that in another state would be regarded as peculiar. It is a mere struggle between two individuals, each the possessor of a pot of gold. That money talks is well understood, but it seldom speaks in more clamorous tones than when two Rhode Island millionaires are battling for recognition as statesmen.

Major John Jacob Astor is said to be transferring his wealth from this country to England. There is none but sentimental ground upon which to protest. W. W. Astor left America many years ago, disgusted because with all his money, he was unable to attain political honors he regarded as his due. His act was proper enough in a legal sense, but it was ungracious and ungrateful. The land in which his ancestor peddled skins ought to be dearer to an Astor than it seems to be.

Thomas Nelson Page, whose death is just recorded, was a man of distinction in more than one field. In his literary work he had kept his activities at a high standard that brought success. As ambassador to Italy, at a time when diplomatic relations had to be conducted with sedulous nicety, he proved quite equal to the task.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Longfellow says something about shooting a song into the air.

And he did not take particular notice of the direction.

Just shot it.

As a song-shooter does.

And a long time afterward he found the song again.

Found it in the heart of a friend.

For the song had reached its mark.

And done its work.

Comforting a friendly heart somewhere.

Then there was a parable long before that.

Of the sower who went forth to sow.

Scattering the seed with lavish hand.

Here and there and everywhere.

Some falling on stony soil.

But much finding its way to fertile soil.

Where it germinated and grew and brought forth increase.

And there have been many tales and parables of the kind.

Of the smiles that were put forth into life.

Finding resting places in the hearts of worn and weary people.

And making for happiness.

And of the bread cast upon the waters.

Returning again after many days.

Meaning that the bread of helpfulness cast on the waters of life will return to make glad the heart of the giver.

Just as any good deed has a two fold reaction.

Or as Shakespeare says of the quality of mercy.

Blessing him that gives and him that takes.

So every once in a while we have an example of the flight of the song, and the sowing of the seed in fertile soil and the casting of bread on waters.

"Believe Me"—By Thomas Moore (1779-1852).

Believe me, if all those endearing young charms,

Which I gaze on so fondly today,

Were to change by tomorrow, and fleet in my arms,

Like fairy-gifts fading away,

Thou wouldst still be adored, as this moment thou art.

Let thy loveliness fade as it will,

And around the dear ruin each wish of my heart

Would entwine itself verdantly still.

Is not while beauty and youth are thine own,

And thy cheeks unprofaned by a tear,

That the fervor and faith of a soul may be known,

To which time will but make thee more dear!

No, the heart that has truly loved never forgets,

But as truly loves on to the close,

As the sunflower turns to her god when he sets,

The same look that she turned when he rose!

Paraffin and Poison Protect Wood From Teredo

Discovery has been made of a way to seal poison in wood which promises complete protection for railroad ties, wharf piling, mining and ship timbers against the ravages of land and water creatures like the terebo. Dr. Paul Bartsch, curator of mollusks of the Smithsonian Institution has found that by forcing hot paraffin containing copper or arsenic salts into timbers under pressure the wood can be preserved from damage by shipworms and other destructive forms of life. The method of application is the same as that now used in treating timber with creosote.

Heretofore it has been hard to keep preservatives in the wood. Gradually the poisons leached out, and left the timber unprotected. By the use of paraffin, which is resistant to water, acids, and alkalis, Dr. Bartsch claims this leaching can be overcome and the wood protected more effectively and with less expense than by present preservatives.

The Forest Products Laboratory reports that the hot paraffin solutions have a great penetrative power and blocks treated by the new method with iodides of copper and arsenic sealed in have been found by officers at the Key West Naval station to be unaffected by shipworms after three months exposure in infested waters where the untreated wood to which they were attached was promptly attacked.

Dr. Bartsch now has a less expensive, highly-poisonous copper salt and is working to obtain a cheaper arsenic preparation, which he believes will eventually displace present timber preservatives. When the Panama Canal was built the greenheart wood was used in the lock gates as a result of it being largely resistant to marine borers. Some difficulty was experienced in getting men to handle the wood, as on some it has an effect similar to that of our poison oak. Recently it has been found that even this toxic timber is attacked by the mollusks which chisel out their homes inside it with impunity. They use the tooth-like edges of their shells.

A colony burrowing through the wood weakens the timber and often results in heavy piling being completely cut in two. Untreated wood shows the holes which the mollusk makes in three months and some creosoted timber after two years in the water has been found to be infested. Copper solutions of one in 2,000,000 have been found deadly, and Dr. Bartsch claims that when the tender tentacles of a mollusk forms come in contact with this preparation they will curl up like the victim of a wood alcohol party. When the shipworm swallows impregnated sawdust his boring days will be promptly over.

Any number of poisons can probably be effectively kept in the wood by mixing them in the paraffin. So resistant is paraffin to the effect of acids that bottles are made of it to hold hydrochloric acid which eats through glass. Heat alone would melt it out, but for railroad ties a paraffin too hard to be affected by the sun's heat would be used.

They use the

For Short Skirts

(St. Louis Star)

Women in various parts of the country are forming "Short Skirt Clubs," the purpose of which is to thwart the edicts of fashion makers, who have voted for somewhat greater length.

It seems a bit strange that women should have to organize for the right to wear skirts any length they please. There is no law against short skirts. But it would be as difficult for one woman to wear a short skirt when everybody else had shifted to the shoe-length as it would for an individual to adopt a daylight saying schedule in a town where the people had voted for standard time. The only way the average woman can resist changing fashions is to be conscious that she has a wide support among her fellow women.

If any man condemns these women as cowards, let him take off his coat in the theater. It is more comfortable and there is no law against it.

MAN, THE ETERNAL RIDDLE

(Worcester Telegram)

Is it that sweet characters have their moments of hardness or that hard citizens occasionally lapse into sweetness? Does patches to the effect that General Ludendorff now devotes himself to his roses reminds that Nero had a sort of an ear for music.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

H. C. Wells, concededly one of the great thinkers of the generation, proposes "unified world control of world affairs." Speaking as a candidate of the labor party, for parliament, he said: "It is plain common sense that world control in international affairs must represent all the main powers of the world."

He desires the League of Nations subjected to a drastic reconstruction that will give Russia, Germany and Turkey, as well as other excluded powers, a sense of equal and honorable co-operation. Mr. Wells cannot be under the impression that he is advancing a new idea. The theory has been given currency many times. It has engaged the minds of serious men for several decades. It was the seed from which the League of Nations might have sprung, a mighty force for peace and amity, had it not been refused lodgment on the fertile soil of America. Accept the responsibility or not, a small coterie of American statesmen destroyed in advance the effectiveness of the league. Some of the more active had aforetime advocated precisely such a compact, declined to endorse it.

The spirit out of which the league was born, is exactly that out of which must come the larger fruitage of the Wells plan. But there are in the way just now obstacles that appear insuperable. It is difficult to see how nations while inspired each, by the grossest self interest, can enter into a partnership. Each cares for its own welfare. Each with unaccountable blindness fails to see how this welfare is to be promoted save at the expense of neighbors. The thought is "As we go up the others must go down." There is not an inkling of the sane and noble idea that all may rise together.

Citation of the fact that in Los Angeles more people relatively are killed by automobile than in any other city, gives rise to mournful reflections. No other effect is expected. There has been preaching enough about the habitual recklessness, and there has been considerable punishment, but the bad work goes on.

The situation in Russia, Germany and Turkey would have to be changed radically to permit fraternity of nations, or make possible unity of purpose. Russia has "dug in," and announced its enmity to all civilization. It seeks to dominate from Moscow, getting the necessary power through a series of personally conducted, and always "bloody" revolutions.

Germany is oppressed by poverty, real or simulated. Its money is worthless. It declines to pay reparation, possibly because unable to pay. It has a seething horde of socialists anxious to join the Russian Reds. It is believed to be manufacturing arms, contrary to the terms of treaty. It has a monarchist party, ready temporarily, for any violence that might tend to restore the throne.

Turkey has defied and defeated Europe. It asks no favors, but it makes demands. The Turks, expelled from Europe, came back when they got ready, and on their own terms. They are not in quest of peace. On the contrary, a war would be so much to their liking that they are in mood to precipitate it. Believing they have the strongest army, they are inclined to test the matter.

All these things serve to block the mechanism that Wells hopes to see in operation. And there does not appear hope, unless at some time, the richest and most powerful nation shall take the initiative. That nation is the United States. It has had its opportunity and tossed it aside. Perhaps the future may bring another opportunity, to be met in a spirit more enlightened.

In a Philadelphia trial the lawyer for the state said to the jury, "put your feet down on jealous married women who act as the accuser, prosecutor, judge and executioner." It does seem as though something ought to be done. Once in awhile, it is true, there may be found a man who is not fit to live, and yet it is difficult to cite a rule by which to delegate to a lady the disagreeable duty of killing him.

Murguía, recently executed in Mexico, is said to have been the last formidable enemy of the Obregon administration. He was general of artillery, and it is conceded that the necessity for putting him out of the way in so summary a fashion was regretted even by Mexicans close to the government.

There is a freshman at Ann Arbor who works eleven hours a day to make his way through the university. This is manual work, exclusive of that he does in study and recitation. Probably a young man of such pertinacity will arrive somewhere white.

When Lady Astor was in this country she spoke favorably of prohibition, but she went back to England and sang another tune. Lady Astor is said to be a very pleasing personage. Being a politician, her statements are made to suit her environment. And nobody has any way of knowing which represents her sentiments.

Because of failure to succeed in her studies a Chicago girl of twelve tied a weight to her leg and jumped into the lake. Who was to blame? There are tasks that should not be imposed upon the frail capacity of childhood. No little one watched by discreet guardians could be allowed to study herself to death.

They have arrested a queen of bootleggers now. There seems to be no gang of outlaws unable to afford at least one queen. A strange thing about it is that though one of these queens gets caught once in awhile, that is the last the public knows. Either she is turned loose quietly, or executed in some secret recess of the prison.

Two men recently were sent to prison for terms of "one to fifty years." Such a sentence meant that they deserved fifty years and were going to serve one.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The last time that Ed Canton looked like a human being was while he was making a drive for Ethel Gramingham's hand. He had hot competition, but he won out. He could get up for golf earlier in the morning, stay up to dance later at night, drink more tea, shake a meaner cocktail, tell more stories with crackles in 'em, and, above all, dress better than all or any of his rivals. Especially dress. He looked like the concentrated essence of a tailors' convention.

Then he married Ethel.

Then his reliable old tailor died.

Then Ed began to look like the chief of the cannibal islands. His trousers ceased to be trousers. They were plain pants. His coats hung from one shoulder and jetted out at the tail. His vests were too short or too long. Whereas a short year before Ed had been admired by every young woman who was not positively in love with some one else, and by many who were, he abruptly fell into the middle-aged series. A man whose hair had been gray ever since Ed was in knee breeches spoke to him in a comradely way. "Us older men," he said.

It jarred Ed. Ethel hadn't succeeded in jolting him at all. It's a funny thing, but a man who loves his wife devotedly will resent her telling him that the back of his neck looks like an accordion. Ethel had started at him because of the way his clothes fitted, and Ed had just ducked his head and waited for the storm to blow over. He supposed all wives talked like that. So far as he knew he was dressing as well as he ever had. He certainly paid as much money for his clothes. That should be the test, he said.

"I'm going to get you a new tailor," said Ethel.

She had discovered that her young husband, like seven men out of each ten, did not know how to dress. He knew nothing of clothes. He bought what he was told to buy and wore what he bought. So long as the trousers were creased and the coat not too mussed in the morning and no spots on the waistcoat he was satisfied. And J. J. Pilgrim, the Reformer—I brought about this change. I told Ethel to make him change tailors. She made him. "The best investment a man can make is in a good tailor," I told her. "Shakespeare saw it first. Remember! 'Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy'!"

FREE SEED IS READY FOR YOU
Congressman Walter F. Lineberger announces that the United States department of agriculture has sent word that the year book for 1921 is ready for distribution. This book is somewhat changed from the old form in that very thorough studies of some of the major agricultural crops, such as corn, wheat, beef and cotton have been substituted for the articles of the magazine type.

Announcement is also made that seed will be ready for distribution shortly after December 1 and if those who desire these free seed, will write Congressman Walter F. Lineberger, at Washington, D. C., stating whether they wish vegetable or flower seed or both, they will be sent to them at once.

LITTLE BUSINESS IS DONE BY 'DADS' MONDAY

John L. Bolen, representing the people of the Verdugo Woodlands, appeared before the Glendale council Monday night. He stated that there was a mistake in the first advertisement for bids for the laying of gas mains into the valley, and these would have to be readjusted. The advertisement ran once instead of twice. He stated that the gas company had called off its men from the work not wishing to take a chance.

It was decided to readvertise for bids for this work, and to push it through as rapidly as possible. Bids will be received November 20.

City Attorney Shaw stated that everything was ready for the contesting of the suit of Miss Winifred F. Marr vs. the city of Glendale, and the Southern California Gas company.

Bids were opened for the improvement of Myrtle street and referred to the city engineer.

The hearing of protests against the opening and widening of Pacific avenue was set for November 23.

A map of a portion of the Fairview tract, No. 5751, was accepted. Bids for the improvement of Fairmont street were opened and referred to the city engineer.

The T. D. & L. theater made application for a permit to erect two signboards, one at the southeast corner of Broadway and San Fernando, and the other at the northeast corner of Brand and Ceritos. It was laid over for further consideration.

It was decided that petitions to change all districts, except setback ordinance, will hereafter require 75 per cent instead of 51 per cent of the frontage affected.

A petition was received asking that Louise street, between Lexington and the wash, be made a first-class residence district. The next step in this work was ordered taken.

Maps of tracts number 4770 and 4717, were offered and accepted.

Sarah Mansfield was granted a permit to conduct a home for children at 1119 South Brand boulevard.

An appeal of the Cypress street residents against the assessment for water pipe was sustained and new assessment ordered.

A resolution ordering the work on Doran street was adopted.

A resolution was adopted ordering the opening and widening of Dorothy drive.

The city manager was instructed to have the Southern California

LITTLE MOTHER
Little sleepy heads to wake, Little youngsters to be dressed,
More than little things to bake, Little fledglings in the nest
To be cheered and sent their ways, Little bags with book and rule, Goodness these are busy days Getting children off to school.

Little tasks, a score and one, Little beds to make upstairs, Dishes to be washed and done,
All the little household cares, Little rents to darn and mend, Little garments pink and blue,
To be washed and ironed—no end To the things there are to do.

Little toys to put away, Little playthings to be kept,
Rounds of duties every day, Something to be dusted, swept,
Washed or cleaned or scoured or brushed, Little tracks upon the stair, Little cryings to be hushed, Every day and everywhere.

Little troubles to be soothed, Little bruises to be kissed, Little wrinkles to be smoothed, Nothing to be left or missed, Finding lost things, mending torn,
Beds to make and plates to lay, Here's another breaking morn, Little Mother's busy day!

Gas company install 3 gas-steam radiators, sufficient to heat the council room at a cost of approximately $240.

"GRANDMA'S BOY" IS CLASSIC AT GLENDALE

"Grandma's Boy," Harold Lloyd's newest comedy in five parts, and his most ambitious attempt for Asagated Exhibitors, comes to the Glendale Theatre today for a four-day run. It is the comedy that Bob Sherwood in "Life," said should win for Lloyd a "room and bath in the Hall of Fame."

The story, which is by Hal Roach, Sam Taylor, and Jean Havez, has for its theme a subject as serious as the regeneration of a coward, but its seriousness adds to rather than detracts from the fun.

Lloyd is the boy who, all his life, has been gripped by fear. One day, after his weakness has been driven very forcibly home to him, and he is filled with shame, his little old-fashioned grandma tells him, a marvelous story of how his grandfather, who had distinguished himself in the Civil War, overcame his cowardice with the aid of a charm given him by a gypsy.

Grandma gives the boy the charm, and what he does then is too good to tell. Suffice to say that the boy finds that courage is a matter of self-confidence, and he comes out on top.

WEDDING OF IKUJI NAKAMURA AND KIYO FUNATSU

A very beautiful and very up-to-date wedding was celebrated Sunday at the Tropic Presbyterian Church when Kiyu Funatsu, daughter of T. Funatsu of 1017 South San Fernando Road became the bride of Ikuji Nakamura. The ceremony was in Japanese and performed by Rev. Kawashima, assisted by Dr. Julius Soper who read the preliminary portion of the service in English.

The church has seldom if ever been more beautifully decorated. The choir recess was outlined with a screen of greenery and white carnations and there were large baskets of flowers and potted palms about the altar and chancel. Two little flower girls, one of them Mary Goto, preceded the bride carrying baskets of roses.

Before the ceremony there were vocal solos and to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, the bridegroom and best man passing up the other aisle and meeting her at the altar. She was groomed in white satin, and wore a handsome wedding veil fastened with a crown of orange bloom, and carried a shower bouquet. She looked very pretty in her wedding finery. Attending her were two bridesmaids, one of them was June Goto.

Immediately following the ceremony the Japanese guests who filled the center of the church went up to the altar to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Nakamura, and passed out, after which the Americans tendered their congratulations. The guests last named were limited to those who have assisted in the Japanese-American Association. On leaving the church each American family was presented with a souvenir in the shape of a miniature wedding cake, beautifully decorated and encased in a box daintily wrapped.

YOUNG FRIENDS MARRY AT THE MUNSON HOME

Miss Dora Tyler of Alhambra and Harry Munson of Placentia, were united in marriage Saturday night at a pretty home wedding, which took place at the home of the bride's sister, and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Munson, 357 West Broadway.

The Munson home was a bower of pink and white carnations, combined with maiden hair ferns and the couple were united in marriage by Rev. Birchby of Alhambra, a personal friend of the groom. The ceremony was witnessed by immediate relatives and a few friends.

To conscientiously advise our customers on the various building problems that may arise.

In addition to the above the use of our complete filing system is available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

These are functions which this firm considers its elementary duties.
